THIRTIETH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

OCTOBER 25, 2015

Bartimaeus caused a stir. Normally he sat by the side of the road being a "good blind beggar." But one day Jesus passed nearby. Bartimaeus jumped up and called out to Jesus. We can imagine him looking in the direction of the commotion and noise. He probably had his arms outstretched as he called out to the son of David.

The people who knew him were embarrassed by his outburst. They tried to hush him and get him to sit back down by the roadside. Their actions spoke volumes: "Bartimaeus, you're not fit for Jesus." But it was okay for them and other "sighted" people to follow Jesus. In today's readings, we learn that true blindness is not a condition of our eyes but of our hearts.

OPENING OUR EYES TO BLINDNESS

Have you ever been in complete darkness with not even a glimmer of natural or artificial light? And then have you ever tried to move around in that darkness? If you know the experience, you know the tentativeness of your movements. Sometimes we live in that same kind of darkness simply because we refuse to open our eyes. Many of our blind spots have been developed to cover weaknesses like prejudice, ignorance, even hatred. Like Bartimaeus, if we trust enough, God's saving grace will deliver us from our failings.

Today's Readings: Jer 31:7-9, Ps 126:1-6; Heb 5:1-6, Mk 10:46-52
(Worship Pgs. 1197)

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

In the tangled but fascinating history of penance in the Church, the Irish “tariff” system helped us survive the collapse of the old system of public canonical penance and prepared the way for a new system that emerged in the twelfth century. The old form was unrepeatable, public, dealt with serious community matters, and regulated by the bishops as chief reconcilers. The new form had a more intimate setting of penitent and confessor, was extremely repeatable, and applied to everyone. The old canonical form was closed to children, who were hardly capable of the very grown-up sins listed, or their demanding remedies. The old form was likewise closed to clerics, who were protected in a sense by the very nature of the discipline.

In the new Irish form the penitent directly named sins, or answered direct questions by the priest. Sometimes, the penitent would recite a long formula accusing him- or herself in a general way of all sorts of sins, even from the distant past. Next, priest and penitent together would lie prostrate before the altar and recite several of the psalms with penitential themes. Finally, the priest would pronounce a judgment, deciding what form and duration the penance should take, normally insisting that the person return for reconciliation once the penances were completed.
